About OPAL

Oman Energy Association (OPAL) is a prominent business society in the Sultanate of Oman. It is an NGO & non-profit organization consisting of more than 500 members focusing on the Energy and Minerals sector.

The organization was originally established in 1998, when like-minded companies came together with a shared vision to promote industry standards, address common challenges, and exchange best practices.

Initially known as the Oil Industry Training Board (OITB), it later merged with the Oman Oil & Gas Contractor Forum to form the Oman Petroleum Alliance (OPAL).

Officially registered on October 27, 2001, under the regulations governing the formation of societies at the Ministry of Social Development, as the Oman Society for Petroleum Services, with OPAL as its brand name.

Rebranded as Oman Energy Association (OPAL), aligning with the Ministry of Energy & Minerals & Oman Vision 2040.

KEY RESPONSIBILITY

- Establishing steering committees and forums to address industry matters.
- Ensuring operations align with the constitution and follow ethical, transparent practices.
- Appointing the CEO and executive management team.
- Reviewing Executive Management performance quarterly.
- Approving strategies, budgets, policies, and business plans.
- Reviewing annual reports, financial statements, and related party transactions.

OPAL represents over 500 member companies and tens of thousands of professionals who form the backbone of Oman's energy and minerals sector. As members of the Sultanate's premier industry society, companies gain access to expert knowledge, collaborative outreach, and valuable professional networks. OPAL's modest fees fund impactful annual programs that support members and strengthen the industry. A diverse range of service providers also contribute to OPAL's dynamic and growing membership community.
